Thousands of Volunteers Are Reported to Be Nearing Exhaustion

20 BLDGS. DESTROYED

Hotels and Churches Included In Havoc Wrought in Large Area

Thousands of volunteers nearing exhaustion after hours of toil are still fighting desperately against fires which have swept through the woodlands of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, menacing towns and farms, and leaving heavy damage in their wake.

Four serious fires which started yesterday in southern New Jersey, including one of the worst that Atlantic county has ever known had multiplied last night and are still raging through widely scattered areas.

More than twenty homes, hotels and churches in the little town of Forked River, on the New York-Atlantic City highway, Ocean county, were destroyed by one fire as the result of a change of wind which saved Absecon from another, and scattered the flames into more than a dozen separate spots.

Among the buildings destroyed at Forked river was the Methodist Church. Three unoccupied cottages at Absecon Heights, several buildings along the Mill road, between Pleasantville and Northfield; barns and wooden bridges along a stretch of thirty miles between Williamstown, Hammononton and Mays Landing, and at least forty square miles of woodland in that section have also been burned.

The smoke yesterday covered nearly all of southern New Jersey, and as long as there was light enough State Fire Warden Coyle directed several groups of fire fighters from an airplane.

Hundreds of motorists returning home from week-end visits at the shore were pressed into service by the fire fighters last night and early today.

A brush fire that started in the northern outskirts of Hammonton, spread eastward towards Westcottsville, Meso and Pleasant Mills. Hundreds of boys and men were called to aid the volunteer departments who have been fighting fires since Friday, and succeeded in saving the Westcottsville Methodist Episcopal Church, a century-old building, only after a hard fight lasting several hours.

Lacey and Brammer, two villages between Forked River and Whiting, had not been heard from early today since the fire was swept in their direction from Forked River by a strong wind.

The home of Major C. Mathis, superintendent of schools at Florence, N. J., was destroyed on a 10,000-acre tract of timber near Tuckerton, in southern Ocean county, was burned down.

The Naval Airport at Lakehurst, N. J., was so overcast with smoke all of yesterday that all activities were suspended. A fire burned its way through the woods in the vicinity to the edge of the town, but none of the Naval property was damaged.

As Hammonton firemen were called out again early today to guard eight farm houses in a mile long strip of woods on Second road, near there, twenty-five more civilian volunteers left there at midnight to aid in combating a serious fire moving westward toward the town of Weymouth.

Fearing for the safety of motorists passing through the section, State police have posted guards along the highways at places where the fires are threatening to jump the roadway and envelop timberland on both sides.

MOVIE COMPANY TO PAY A COOL MILLION DOLLARS TO AMOS 'N' ANDY

By Frederic A. Chase

HOLLYWOOD, May 5.—Unknown a year ago, two black-face entertainers have been enticed to Hollywood to capitalize their radio fame, and earn something like a million dollars in their first talking picture appearance.

"Amos 'n' Andy started in a small way over the radio, with Check and Double Check for a title of their sentimental dialogue. They picked up a following, and soon became widely known over the National Broadcasting network. Movie offers came to them, very modest at first, until Radio Pictures made them a proposition including a percentage of the proceeds that the pair couldn't turn down. In signing the papers, they revealed their real names—Freeman F. Gosden (Amos) and Charles J. Correll (Andy).

Their rise recalls that of Moran and Mack, the two Black Crows, who first became famous making phonograph records. Then they graduated to radio and to talkies, where the traditional pot of gold was theirs.

There are all kinds of ways to bust into the movies.

All the heart throbs on the studio lots don't get into the pictures. Out on the RKO lot, negro soloists

MORRISVILLE SHOWS BIG POPULATION JUMP

Increase of 1,769 Shown by Census Figures Just Completed

SECOND LARGEST BORO'

MORRISVILLE, May 5.—Morrisville, with a gain in population of 1,769 in the past ten years, not only shows the largest growth, but this borough has passed Doylestown and Quakertown and is now the second largest down in Bucks County. Bristol alone leads Morrisville, according to the figures of the census just taken.

The population of Morrisville Borough, according to the official census figures completed Saturday night, is 5,408. The First Ward is the largest with 1,505 people; the Second Ward has 1,195 and is the smallest. The Third Ward has 1,450 and the Fourth Ward has 1,258 persons. Morrisville's total population in 1920, the last previous official United States census, was 3,639 people.

Quakertown, the borough crowded from second to third place by Morrisville, has a population, according to the new census, of 4,873. It had 4,391 10 years ago and made a gain of only 482. Doylestown, which formerly held third place, but now crowded down into fourth place, has a population of 4,569 against 3,837 of 10 years ago. The gain to the county seat was 732.

Morrisville's growth was made without any annexation or new developments. It was simply a steady, healthful growth. The census figures of 5,408 for Morrisville Borough does not include any of Edgemoor Gardens, the Arborlea tract or that part of the Burgess tract west of Lafayette avenue and on the north side of Trenton avenue, west of Lafayette avenue. While all this territory would seem to be a part of Morrisville Borough since these residents get the water, mail delivery and other borough advantages from Morrisville, it is nevertheless part of Lower Makefield Township and the residents of this section are counted and included in the figures for the township. With this section added to the Morrisville figures, the population would reach about 6,000.

New Head Has Been Connected With Society for Years — Very Active in Development of Objectives of the Organization — Memorial Hour Features Meeting

DOYLESTOWN, May 5.—To succeed the late Dr. Henry Chapman Mercer, who for many years served the Bucks County Historical Society in the capacity of president and curator, B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., of Riegelsville, former vice-president, was elected president at a meeting of the board of directors at noon Saturday.

The new president has been connected with the Historical Society for many years and has been active in the development of the objectives of the organization. Colonel Henry D. Paxson, of Philadelphia and Holicong, was elected vice-president; Horace M. Mann, secretary, treasurer and assistant curator; and Warren S. Ely, librarian.

The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Historical Society opened in the Museum building. The afternoon session was featured by a memorial hour to the late president of the society, Dr. Mercer, and the reading of two papers.

Announcement was made of a gift of $1000 to the Society from James Van Horn, Harbor.

Secretary Horace M. Mann, in his annual report stated that the net loss in membership during the past year was thirteen but that new members to be taken in would more than cover that loss. The present membership is 451. Twenty-four new members were elected during the year, there were eleven deaths, fourteen resignations, and twelve others were dropped for non-payment of dues.

Eleven members who died during the past year were reported as follows: Miss Sara Atkinson, Penn's Park; Henry S. Funk, Springtown; Mrs. H. Warner Hollowell, Ivyland; Miss Rose P. Reporting as assistant curator, Mr. Mann stated that the most important single feature of activity in the museum the past year was the publication and distribution of Dr. Mercer's

FRUIT IN BUCKS COUNTY SUFFERED LITTLE HARM

Cold Weather of Past Week Had But Little Effect On Orchards

MANY INSECTS KILLED

DOYLESTOWN, May 5.—County Agent William F. Greenawalt this morning announced that the cold weather last week did not do a great deal of damage to fruit in Bucks county. A few of the orchards located in low places suffered some injury in some of the early varieties of peaches and apples.

Reports from other counties as far west as Adams showed that there had been some heavy losses as the result of the freeze. Bucks county apple growers at present are in the midst of applying the pink spray. Mr. Greenawalt announced that it is very important that this spray be applied when the buds have separated and before they have blossomed.

The cold weather according to Mr. Greenawalt, has helped the fruit growers by killing a large percentage of aphids and early fruit worms that hatched during the warm weather earlier in the season.

Owing to the cold weather last week, said Mr. Greenawalt this morning, the asparagus has been retarded. Growers in lower Bucks county are just beginning to make their first cuttings.

The annual asparagus show which is sponsored by the banks of lower Bucks county will be held on Thursday and Friday, May 22 and 23, at Morrisville. Judges for the show will be W. B. Nissley, State College, and C. K. Hallowell, Philadelphia county farm agent.

Heaving and winter kill, according to Mr. Greenawalt, has resulted in the injury to a large amount of alfalfa throughout Bucks county.

The potato acreage in the county this season will be about the same as it was last year. A number of the growers in the lower end of the county have planted the Cobbler, Green Mountain and Russet varieties and the growers in the upper end of the county are starting to plant their potatoes now. Within the next ten days, if weather conditions permit, a major- anybody happy."

BODY OF MAN FOUND FLOATING IN DELAWARE

Unidentified Corpse is Fished From Stream at Maple Beach This Morning

IN WATER LONG TIME

The body of an unidentified man was fished from the Delaware River this morning at Maple Beach.

It was the body of a man about 45 years of age and evidently had been in the water for a long time. The body was fully clothed even to an overcoat. There were no evidences of foul play. It was about nine o'clock when the corpse was noticed floating up the stream at a point where the new bridge, between Burlington and Bristol, will touch Maple Beach.

Henry P. McGee, South Langhorne; Paul K. Marsh, 338 Roosevelt street, and Edward Blackney, 233 Cleveland street, noticed it at about the same time.

The three men walked out into the stream on a runway which has been constructed by bridge workmen. The body was made fast to a stake and Deputy Coroner W. Furman Young was called.

The body was about 50 feet from the shore line and was floating face upward. It was removed to the H. S. Rue Estate morgue.

LATEST NEWS

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—(INS)—The General Council of the Presbyterian Church has approved efforts to merge 13 Presbyterian theological seminaries in a report to be presented by a special committee to the Presbyterian General Assembly at Cincinnati on May 29. The committee concludes that both legal and sentimental obstacles must appear in the suggested mergers and that such consolidations must be gradually effected by the institutions themselves, holding that, "unwilling unions might involve the church in controversy."

RESTIVE CONGRESS NOW ON THE HOME STRETCH

All Wish to Adjourn by June 1st; Hoover Wants The Tasks Completed

IMPORTANT WORK

By George R. Holmes
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 5.—A restive Congress, politically scared and burning to get away from Washington, started down the home stretch of the session today.

The common aspiration is to adjourn by June 1, four working weeks off, despite President Hoover's insistence that Congress stay on the job until it winds up the tariff, ratifies the London Naval Treaty, adopts the reforms in prohibition legislation he has thrice recommended and disposes of other matters considered pressing.

The work demanded is important, but in the life of the average Congressman there is nothing more important than getting renominated and re-elected. Hence it will not be surprising if, after enacting the tariff bill, the nervous members bolt for home to mend political fences against the hurricane of votes in November presidential wishes to the contrary notwithstanding.

Primaries already have begun, while Congress dawdles in Washington. Illinois pried the lid off with enough upsets to send apprehensive shivers down the backs of many. Indiana votes tomorrow, Alabama a week later, with Oregon, Pennsylvania and South Dakota following in close order. The month of June will see seven other states holding primaries; there will be two in July, while in August the Senators and Representatives of 14 states face the voters.

TRANSFERRING ENFORCEMENT

Congress is going ahead with its plans for reorganizing prohibition enforcement machinery in spite of the returns from mobbiol prohibition polls indicating a minority demand for enforcement.

In favorably reporting the bill to transfer enforcement from the treasury to the department of justice, the senate judiciary committee has made one important change in the house measure. It has eliminated the provision requiring the attorney general to retain present employees of the prohibition unit who are under civil service regulations. The house may not find this amendment to its taste, an eventuality that might spell delay in authorization of the transfer until the next session.

Great caution should be exercised by congress in any departure from the civil service system, but this may be one of the times when a departure from policy is justified. Senator Borah says the personnel of the unit is inefficient from top to bottom and that a house cleaning is of first importance. Senator Norris and other dries think conditions so deplorable as to warrant another senatorial investigation. These are arguments in favor of "cleaning house" when and if Attorney General Mitchell takes over the enforcement job, but a more valid one is that of Mitchell himself who, contending that his authority must be commensurate with his responsibility, wants the power to pick his own staff.

There have been fresh starts before and the fact that they have accomplished little may have been due to a failure to make the "shake-ups" 100 per cent. That is the Mitchell plan.

"THANK YOU"

Two little words that make the world run more smoothly, that ease the hard places of life and absorb many of its shocks, are "Thank you."

They are the sign of a gracious spirit. They bespeak a generous attitude that would not withhold praise from those that deserve it—a commodity with which too many of us are stingy.

The majority of us take too much and accept everything as a matter of course.

Yet one's best friend likes to hear an appreciative word. While a compliment deserved by an outsider and extended frankly and generously will often convert an enemy into an ally.

Appreciation, like charity, begins at home and among those nearest and dearest. The price of good fellows is a failure and a hypocrite unless he takes his reputation home with him at night and arrays it with smiles and pleasant words at the breakfast table in the morning.

These two little words, "Thank you," make the world run more smoothly. Learn to speak them. No praise is ever wholly undeserved. Encouraging words are as great a miracle worker as this old world knows.

Some people are too good to be interesting.

Even a tall man may not be above criticism.

We might enjoy work more if we did not have to do it.

Fruit in Bucks County Suffered Little Harm

ity of the potatoes throughout the county will have been planted.

Lower Bucks county farmers reported very heavy losses in both sweet and field corn as the result of the ravages of the Japanese beetles last year. In order to prevent a recurrence the farmers in that section will plant their field corn a little later this year.

The representative from the Japanese beetle laboratory at Moorestown, N. J., spent yesterday in Bucks county arranging some demonstrations in order to check up on the effect of different planting dates to avoid the beetle injury on field corn.

He also arranged, with the assistance of County Agent Greenawalt, two demonstrations for the control of the beetle in sweet corn by the use of arsenical dust which will be applied by an orchard duster during the period that the corn is in process of pollination. These demonstrations will be held at Yardley and Southampton.

Mr. Greenawalt, with the assistance of Mr. Nageotte, State College, has just completed purchasing 23 calves which will be distributed among the calf club members at Pineville and in the vicinity of Quakertown. The Guernsey and Holstein calves were purchased in Bucks county, while the Ayrshires and Jerseys were purchased in Wayne county.

sult is, I am sure, the most complete collection of Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth century carpenter tools in the world.

At one time, Mr. Mann reported, the preparation of an illustrated dictionary or encyclopedia of trades and tools was contemplated. Almost a year was spent in collecting notes and photographing specimens of the collection but after working on the "Carpenter Tools," Dr. Mercer decided it would be far better to take up the subject by trades and complete one trade at a time rather than take up the individual tools separately. This book, excluding individual papers in the proceedings, is the first attempt to explain the purpose and meaning of the collection. Heretofore the most important matter was to collect specimens while they were still available leaving the explanation of them to a later time.

The assistant curator reported several new stove plates, a set of surgical instruments, four collection boxes or bags from Berks county churches and, through R. P. Hommel, a number of Chinese tools and utensils illustrating the industrial and home life of the Chinese, among them being a rare set of Chinese Marionettes.

Several hundred less people visited the museum during the past year than in the previous. The register for the year shows a total of 7,691 names.

Some of the interesting collections presented to the museum during the past year are as follows: Pow-wow stone and small metal box and a chemist's retort, by Dr. James Wister, Germantown; set of wooden stove plate moulds of the early 19th century, by Charles B. Montgomery, Elverson, Pa.; spice grinder, by J. Herman Barnsley, Newtown; German pipe, by A. Harry Clayton, Doylestown; buttonhole cutter and hop planting tools, by Joseph R. Sandford, Brooklyn, N. Y.; wooden embroidery pattern, by Mrs. Lewis Sigafos, Doylestown; cloth wallet, by Miss Carrie Holbert, Warrington; Indian tomahawk, by Dr. Robert P. Sacks; earthen water cooler and other household utensils, by Dr. Raley H. Bell, New Hope; wooden pottery candle mould, by S. Edson Gage, New York City; pie crimper, by Mrs. Warren S. Ely, Doylestown; china, silver, by Miss Elsie W. Dettra, Hahorah; medicine case, by Mrs. Martha Dean Paul, New York City; jeweler's agate oil dip, two Spanish-American dueling knives, battle axe head and spikes, nails and trenails from old English churches and abbey, by W. J. Andrew, Ramsey, England; stamped paper flour bags from old Bucks county grist mills, by Mrs.

Anna M. Barnes and Mrs. Warren S. Ely, Doylestown.

The thirty-ninth annual report of the treasurer, B. F. Fackenthal, Jr., and Assistant Treasurer Horace M. Mann, was presented in the morning.

The amount of income from all sources during 1929 amounted to $3314. The balances in the various accounts include $1,989.68 in the general account; $58.06 in the library account; and $1464.69 in the Fackenthal publication fund.

Under the general account, the income from investments amounted to $1,850 and dues from 350 members brought in $392 in addition to an appropriation of $200 from the Bucks County Commissioners.

Items in the financial reports did not include any part of the financial operations of the Mercer Museum all expenses of which were paid by the late president, Dr. Mercer, including salaries of the janitor and assistant curator, repairs, fuel, taxes and additions to the collections.

The Fackenthal Publication Fund has a balance of $1,464.69. Income from vested funds during the past year amounted to $220 and the sale of publications amounted to $713.

The treasurer also reported that Dr. Mercer very kindly gave the proceeds from the sale of his two books, "Bible in Iron" and "Ancient Carpenter Tools" to the Fackenthal Publication Fund. The latter book had the remarkable sale in 1929 of 117 copies.

to the spliced parcelled eyes of wire/rope formerly passed entirely around the mast.

The weight of the mast is approximately 5,000 pounds. It was made of hundreds of lineal feet of small spruce timbers, fastened together by a special type of glue which hardens to a strength greater than that of the fibre of the wood. It was constructed in quarters, each quarter being hollowed out, permitting a hollow space inside the completed mast running from one end to the other and roughly following the outer shape.

This hollow construction not only saves weight, an essential requirement, but also increases the stiffness and permits the running of halyards for lowering and hoisting the sail through the interior of the mast, thereby reducing wind resistance. The mast is oval, rather than round, in shape for stream lining.

Because of the vast spread of the "leg of mutton" sails tremendous strength will be demanded of the masts on all of the cup defenders, each of which has been provided with a spare spar in the event of disaster. All of the original masts for each of the defenders are similar in construction and design to that for the "Enterprise." So are the spars, with one exception, which is made of metal.

Strength requirements have been chiefly responsible for dictating the use of monel metal tang fittings. These were first used on the "Vantite," when she was refitted last year for trials preparatory to this year's contest. They are finger-like in construction and are spread out like a palm so as to distribute the strain over a large area on the near side of the mast, instead of a wire loop passing entirely around it as in the older type of rig. This feature reinforces the mast and eliminates the necessity of dismantling the sail track in taking down the rigging. Laboratory tests show the tangs to have a tensile strength of more than 100,000 pounds per square inch. Some idea of the strain on the fittings and mast may be gained from the fact that the mainsail itself weighs almost half a ton.

In a brisk wind of 30 miles an hour the 7500 square feet of sail area will be exposed to a pressure of approximately three pounds per square foot or a total lateral pressure of about 11 tons. Laboratory tests of the tang attachments proved them to be able to break steel shroud cables of sufficient size to properly stay the mast, indicating that full effective strength of the steel wire is thus employed.

The method of construction of the spinnaker boom was somewhat similar to that used for the main mast. That the "Enterprise" was constructed of four single pieces of spruce, hollowed out and then glued together. Spare booms and sails, in addition to main masts, have been provided for all four contenders.

Citizens' Training Camps No Place for Loafers

There is work to be done in the Citizens' Military Training Camps. Drills, marches, field maneuvers, organized athletics, schools and indoor instruction. They are not advertised as a vacation, for that implies idleness, and such an impression would be misleading to the public.

But, in their schedules of training, everyone fares alike, and has the same duties to perform. The president's son and the farmer's son, the governor's son and the laborer's son, the general's son and the miner's son, the millionaire's son and the working widow's helpful son, all share alike the work and play, standing shoulder to shoulder in the ranks, wearing the same uniforms, eating the same food, sleeping side by side in the barracks and forming the ties of mutual comradeship which will last through lifetime.

Yet, in these camps there is no place or room anywhere, at any time, for shirkers, lazybones, mollycoddles or weaklings. Such had better seek some other kind of summer vacation.

These camps are open for all boys seventeen years of age and over, start in July and are conducted without cost to any one, including transportation to and from camp, by the government. Applications should be sent to I. J. Hetherington, 145 Buckley street, Bristol, or R. W. Fechtenburg, Edgington.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sheldon have moved from 310 Jackson street to 355 Cleveland street.

America's Answer to Shamrock V

The Enterprise, which will attempt again to prove that Sir Thomas Lipton is better at making tea than he is at making yachts to beat American-made ones, rides at ease after going down the ways at Bristol, R. I. She was sponsored by Mrs. W. W. Aldrich (inset), wife of one of the group of wealthy men who have built the trim little yacht. The Enterprise will contest with several other American-built boats for the right to defend America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger, Shamrock V.

(International News)

NEW YORK, May 5.—(INS)—As has aroused more interest among yachtsmen than the huge masts and fittings.

The masts, themselves, are the largest ever built for a sailing vessel, averaging 165 feet in height. That on the "Enterprise," first of the contenders to be launched, is 163 feet long, more than thirty feet too high to pass under the Brooklyn Bridge. In diameter it measures twenty-seven inches at its widest point, which is shortly above the main deck. The shrouds and back stays are attached to the mast, with tang fittings of monel metal, approximately one ton of the metal going into the fittings for the mast and boom. Tests with the new rig on "Vantite" in 1929 indicates that this method of attachment is far superior
